Social and

The marriage of Miss Marion Mae Anderson to Mr. Carter Branham Snow was celebrated in Meade Memorial Episcopal Church, Manchester, June 29th, at 9 o'clock in the evening.

The Rev. Benjamin Dennis, rector of Meade Memorial Church, and the Rev. John Y. Dowiman, of All Saints' Church, Hichmond, were the celebrants. The church was decerated in paims, with silver and crystal candelebra and white wax tapers. Professor Richard Bacon played Mudelissohn's wedding march as the bridal party entered and the chorus from Lohengrin as a recessional. The notes of "Violets" and "O, Promiss Me," made a soft undertone during the ceremony.

made a soft undertone during the ceremony.

Little Master Dan Ingram, the ringbearer, followed by the two flower girls, Misses Annie Bolling Ingram and Margaret Gary, came into the church first.
The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs,
J. Burleigh Anderson, and a young lady of most engaging personality, came in on the arm of her brother, Mr. C. Burleigh Anderson, who gave her away. She wore a beautiful white silk mull gown trimmed in lace, above chiffon and taffeta, a white lace and chiffon hat, and carried a shower bouquet of illes of the valley.

reid, a white hee accepted to the valley.

The groom was attended by his best man, Mr. Charles Gilliam Snead, of Nonthumberland county. Va., and by Mr. Henry Patteson, of Manchester, and Mr. Robert W. Williams, of Richmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Snow will leave Richmond to-day for an extensive Northern tour. After July 20th, they will take up their residence at No. 201. West Franklin Street. The array of rich wedding gifts in rare and beautiful articles showed that the young couple were held in good remembrance by their many friends. Mr. Snow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin Snow, and is connected to business with the well known firm of Stephen Putney and Company.

Schaaf—Godsey.

Schaaf—Godsey.

Miss Daisy Belle Godsey, the daughter of Mr. James F. Godsey, and Mr. Frederlok Bernhard Schaaf, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Schaaf, will be married at 8:30 o'clock this evening in Pine Street Baptist Church, the Rev. Dr. J. B. Hutson officiating.

The bride's sister, Miss Isola Geraldine Godsey, will be maid of honor. Miss Helen Annie Schaaf, Miss Dalsy Garthright, Miss Celeste Heath, Miss Grace Walton and Miss Lena Lang will officiate as bridesmaids. Schaaf-Godsey.

as bridesmaids.
Mr. Edward Schaaf, the brother of the Mr. Edward Schaaf, the brother of the groom, will be best man. Groomsmen will include Mr. Herman E. Kasten, Mr. Otto Moeller, Mr. Douglas B. Godsey, Mr. Robert B. Godsey, Mr. John McAl-lister and Mr. V. Gray Webber.

De Bell-Beach.

De Bell—Beach.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Fairfax Beach, the daughter of Mrs. M. E. Beach and the late Samuel T. Beach, to Dr. Arthur Wise De Bell, of Powellton, West Va., was celebrated last afternoon in the Second Haptist Church, the Rev. Dr. W. R. L. Smith officiating. Miss Beach, attended by her maid of honor, Miss Katherine Spotswood Beach, and by her bridesmaids, Mrs. Harry Lee Watson and Miss Salile Spotswood Beach, was gowned in white chiffon over taffeta, wore a tulle vell and carried Bride roses.

taffeta, wore a tulie ver and ball Bride roses.

The maid of honor was in pink and had a bouquet of pink sweet peas. The bridesmaids' toilets were white slik mull above sik; their flowers, white carnations.

/Mr. Richard M. Chichester, of Alexandra, Va., was best man, Mr. Harry Lee watson, Mr. George N. Skipwith, Mr. W. MacFarfand Janes, Mr. Powhatan D. Overton, Mr. Samuel H. Beach and Mr. John D. Beach were the groomsmen.

Overton, Mr. Samuel H. Beach and Mr. John D. Beach were the groomsmen.
Dr. and Mrs. De Bell left last evening for St. Louis. They will return to their home in Powellton, West Va., about the middle of July.

Faulkner-Terrell.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Walker Terrell, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Terrell, of Hanover county, to the Rev. Thomas Green Faulkner of St. C. J. Terrell, of Hanover county, to the Rev. Thomas Green Faulkner, of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Clifton Forge, Va., took place very quietly at 5 P. M. yesterday in Monumental Church. On account of recent bereavoment, that ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate families of the contracting par-

Armstrong-Smith.

wedding of Mrs. William Gordon of Fredericksburg, to Mr. Henry 7.20 P. M., June 25th, in the bride's home at Fredericksburg, the Rev. Dr. Rosebro, of the Fresbyterian Church, officiating. The ceremony was witnessed only by relatives and intimate friends. The bride was gowned in champagne volle and a cream lace hat. Mr. Ernest L. Layton, of Fredericksburg, was best man, Mr. and Jrs. crmstrong came to Blehmond and airs armstrong came to Richmond immediately after their marriage, and will be here for some days longer, Mrs. Armstrong being well known here in musical circles.

O'Hara-Foley.

The Newport News Daily Press of yes-terday had the following interesting announcement:
At high mass this morning in the city of Washington, Miss Winne Foley, of this city, will become the bride of Mr. P. O. C'Hara. The ceremony will be per-formed by Father O'Hara, brother of the groom.

Mr. O'Hara, who recently came to this city from Richmond to make his home here, has been in Washington several days. Miss Foley left last night to Join him.

The parents of the bride-elect have resided in the city for a number of years. Mr. Mark Foloy, father of the young lady, is employed in the fitters' department of the ship-yard.

Personal Mention.

Miss Maggie Waddill is the guest of the Misses Walker at Roxbury, Va.

Miss Sarah Taylor is visiting friends in Newport News, Va.

The Misses Shields will leave the last

Wedding Gifts.

FOR over one hundred years we have recognized but ONE QUALITY-THE BEST.

Our prices for Fine Diamonds and other Gems, Fine Jewelry and Sterling Silverware, are invariably THE LOWEST.

All carrespondence given prompt and careful attention. Goods sent on approval to all responsible persons— express prepaid.

Galt & Bro.,

Established Over a Century.
Jewellers, Sliversmiths, Stationers, 1107 Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Personal. GOOD

MAKES BREAD THAT FATTENS

BAKING

of this week to visit Dr. and Mrs. A. C Jones in Newport News.

Mrs. Shirley Gentry, of this city, and Mrs. W. C. Willeox, of Bon Air, are guests in the ramily of Mr. T. W. Will-cox, Charles City county.

Mr. Gayle Anderson, of Portsmouth, Ohio, who is in Richmond for a short yisit, will go from here to Baltmore, where he will probably remain during the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Mary Tillman Justis has returned to Richmond from a two weeks' visit to her parents in the country. Mrs. Justis was accompanied by her little daughter.

fiss Mary Sparrow is visiting Mrs. H. Drewry at the home of the latter Charles City county.

Mrs. Charles Carter and her daughter, Miss Mary Randolph Carter, passed through Richmond this week on their way to Charlottesville, Va., where they will spend some time.

The Misses Caskin, of New York, who were the guests Miss Lina Livingston Mayo, have returned home after being the recipients of many pleasant attentions.

Mr. W. M. Plunkett, one of the most popular and efficient gallway postal clerks in Richmond, and who runs on the James River division of the Cheasapeake and Oler Road between this city and Clifton Porgo, will be married this evening at 630 colock to Miss Bernice C. Oakey, at Geremony, Mr. and Mrs. Plunkett will leave for St. Louis, where they will spend two weeks, after which they will be at liome. No. 412 North Twelfth Street, in this city.

Miss Gertrude M. Lanahan, of Naneten, Charles Street Avenue, Baltimore, and Captain Philip A. Werker, of the United States coast and geodetic survey, were married at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. Edwin B. Niver, rector of Christ's Protestant Episcopal Church. The ceremony was quietly performed at the home of the hride, and owing to the recent death of Mr. Oliver Reeder, no invitations or announcement cards were issued.

CHAPTER XLIII-Continued.

ship," he said. "You were kind enough to say the other day that you were inf fashion."

Illicent will have to get over it as may. Her feelings need scarcely be into consideration."

tken into consideration."
Lady Cantourne made a little movement wards the door. There was much to s to-much of that women's work which lakes weddings the wild, confused cere-

Lady Cantourne made a little movement towards the door. There was much to see to-much of that women's work which makes weddings the wild, confused ceremonies that they are.

"I am afraid," said Sir John. "that I never thought of taking them into consideration. As you know, I hardly considered yours. I hope I have not overdrawn that reserve."

He had crossed the room as he spoke to open the door for her. His fingers were on the handle, but he did not turn it, awaiting her aaswer. She did not look at him, but passed him towards the shaded lamp, with that desire to fix her attenion upon some inanlinate object which he knew of old.

"The reserve," she answered, "will stand more than that. It has accumulated—with compound interges. But I deny the debt of which you spoke just now. There is no debt. I have paid it, year by year, day by day. For each one of those lifty years of unhappiness I have paid a year—of regret."

He opened the door and she passed out years of unhappiness I into passed out for regret."

He opened the door and she passed out into the brilliantly lighted passage and down the stairs, where the servants were

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Elice

No. 224.

QUA CURSUM VENTUS

By ARTHUR PUGH CLOUGH.

Prof. Charles Eliot Norton, of Harvard, who was a close friend of Clough's, furnishes this explanation of the poem here published. "The little of the poem "Qua Cursum Ventus," is taken from a verse of Virgil's Aeneid III., 289 As used by Mr. Clough the words may be freely translated "wherever the wind may drive." The verse in Virgil is, when translated into English, "whither the wind and the steersman directed our course." verse in Viscil is, when translated into English, "whither the wind and the steersman directed our course."

The biographical eketch of Arthur Hugh Clough, born in England 1819, died in Italy in 1861, together with his portrait and autograph, have already appeared in this series.

As ships, becaim'd at eve, that lay With canvas drooping, side by side, Two towers of sail at dawn of day Are scarce long leagues apart described;

When fell the night, upsprung the breeze, And all the darkling hours they plied, Nor dreamt but each the self-same seas By each was cleaving, side by side:

E'en so-but why the tale reveal Of those whom, year by year unchanged. Brief absence join'd anew to feel,

At dead of night their sails were fill'd, And onward each rejoicing steer'd: Ah, neither blame, for neither will'd, Or wist, what first with dawn appear'd!

To veer, how vain! On, onward strain, Brave barks! In light, in darkness too, Through winds and tides one compass guides,— To that, and your own selves, be true.

Jordan-Oliver.

by Rev. Edwin B. Niver, rector of Christ's Protestant Episcopal Church. The coremony was quietly performed at the home of the bride, and owing to the recent death of Mr. Oliver Reeder, no invitations or announcement cards were issued.

Miss Sophie White expects to pay a visit to the Virginia seashore next week. The following notice of a Virginia marriage appeared in the Washington Post of yesterday:

CUT THIS OUT AND KEEP IT. You Will Want to Read this Story

Mr. Mourice F. Castleman, of Worth Hill, Castleman's Ferry, Va., and Miss Neille Osburn, also of Castleman's Ferry, were married at 6 o'clock last evening in error cities.

Armstrong-Smith.

(Special to The ',imes-Dispatch.)
FREDERICKSBURG, VA., June 29,— Mrs. Annie Downs Smith was married at her home here last night to Mr. H. D.
Armstrong, of Richmond, Rev. Dr. J.
W. Rosebro officiating. They will reside in Richmond.

Elopement.

PREDERICKSBURG. VA., June 29.— Miss Carrie McCracken, a well known and popular young lady of this city, eloped with Mr. Clark Sawyer, of Wash-ington, and was married in New York. The couple are now on their honeymoon.

Burnett's Extract of Vanilla Used and highly endorsed by all leading hotels.-"Adv."

Bouyere-Daniel.

WEDDINGS IN OLD VIRGINIA

Elegant Ceremony at Charlotte Courthouse, With Opaline Effects.

VON WEISE - THORNTON

Beautiful Wedding in Fluvanna. Miss Lily Ford Snead and Lycurgus Rayner Varser.

(Special to The Times Dispatch.)
CHARLOTTE C. H., VA., June 29.—
Probably the most beautiful wedding ever seen in Charlotte took place in the historic old village church, of Charlotte Courthouse, Va., on Wednesday evening. June 29th, when Miss Lucy Daniel Thornton, of Charlotte Courthouse, was married to Mr. Charles Kingston von Weise, of Tishomingo, I. T. The bride is the daughter of Mr. F. C. Thornton, the well known Charlotte banker and merchant. She is a young lady whose beauty is widely known, and whose charming personality has won for her a host of friends in this and in other States. Her popularity was attested by the great number of beautiful and costly presents which she received. Mr. Von Weise is a prominent young attorney of the Indian Territory—one of those young men whose spiendid energy and business ability have accomplished the marvelous development of the great west. (Special to The Times Dispatchi) CHARLOTTE C. H., VA., June 29,-

It was an "opaline wedding," and the pretty idea was carried out with artistic fidelity and brilliant effect in both the decorations and the costumes. The brdesmalds were gowned in green, blue, and pink, and all carried bunches of Madame Testout roses. Before the ceremony, Miss Bessie Daniel sang L'eclair's beautiful romance, "Cail Me Thine Own," accompanied by Miss Bertie Ingram, a young accomplished musician. Mr. Joseph B. Friend played the wedding march from played the wedding march from drass, with time vell.

hacker, the bride's sister, was matron of honor, and wore white silk; Miss Frances L. Thornton, maid of honor, in green silk, with Madame Testout roses. The groom was accompanied by Mr. George Dick Rodgers, of Muscogee, I. T., bld bett man.

Mr. R. F. Hutcheson, Richmond, Ky; Miss Lucy Nash Eggleston, Charlotte, with Mr. E. Scott Martin, Farmulity Va.; Miss Ellen Douglass Thornton, Ap-pomattox, with Mr. R. S. Spencer, Jr.

The following gentlemen acted as ushers: Hon. D. Q. Eggleston, Mr. T. J. Pennybacker, Mr. J. H. Norvell, Mr. R. F. Hutcheson, Mr. E. S. Martin and Mr. D. C. WatkinsAmong the guests from a distance who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. G. B. James, Newport News, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Pennybacker, Broadway, Va. Miss Mary Witherspoon, Meridian, and Mrs. T. J. Pennybacker, Broadway, Va.; Miss Mary Witherspoon, Moridian, Miss.; Mr. E. S. Martin and Miss E. R. Martin, Farmville, Va., and others.

A reception at the bride's home, followed the church ceremony. They sail from Old Point for Boston, thence by the Lakes to Chicago. They will also visit St. Louis and other cities of the West before reaching their home, in Tichoming. fore reaching their home in Tichomingo.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) ROANOKE, VA., June 29.-Miss Myrtle

DO IT NOW? GO TO E. T. FAULKNER CO.

Delay will rob you of the opportunity of your life. Extra preparation has been made to make this day, "Thursday" the biggest bargain sale day yet recorded. Our special Thursday prices must and will draw great crowds.

30c. Sheeting Bleached, 10 Yards to a Customer, 20c.

50c. and 75c. Value for 42c. A large purchase of Val Laces, edge and insertings, odd assortment bought from Muser Bros., a very large Lace manufacturer. We will soil Thursday morning 75c. and $1.00 value for $20.

Clark's Spool Cotton 2 for 5c

75c. Value for 48c.

ICImonns and Dressing Sacques sheer and the never sold for less than 75c, now 48c.

Big Bargain 25c.

25c. Value 11%c. Wide showy Embroidery, the greatest Thursday bargain yet offered, 50c. Stocks 15c. Long Madras Stocks both white and figured. Another wonder.

29c. Organdy 15c. White and colored, 2 yards wide this is an imported organdy. Thursday special.

10c. Lawns 5½c. Light and tinted grounds with dots, gures and stripes. A great special for Thursday, Ladies' and Gent's 10c. Collars 2c.

We will sell for Thursday only, 10 yards of Andiscoggin Bleached Cotton to 83-ic,

10c. Value 61c. A White Madras with crepy strips, that is almost half-price,

50c. Madras 19c. Small effects, 32 inches wide, the best Mercerized Madras made,

Men's Underwear 22c.

25c. Value 19c. Another new purchase of 6 inch Ribbon in all colors, 25c, velue for 12c, 19c, Slik Mouselin will be. Thursday at 12 12c

E. T. FAULKNER CO.,

THE DAYLIGHT CASH STORE.

FIRST AND BROAD STREETS.

Watkins Daniel, one of the pretty twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A Daniel, and Mr. H. A. Bauyere, of Waco, Texas, were married to-day at the residence of the bride, in the Crystal Springs section. Rev. Arhur Rowbetham officialed. Mrs. J. J. Owens, of Halifat sister of the bride, and Mrs. Samuel work were matrons of honor, and Miss Mabel Daniel, the twin sister, and the brother, Mr. W. B. Daniel, were the other attendants.

VARSER-SNEAD.

Beautiful Church Wedding in Fluvanna County.

Fluvanna County.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

FORK UNION, VA. June 29.—Much interest centered here to-day in the marriage of Miss Lily Ford Snead, second daughter of Mr. John Peyton Snead, it Mr. Lycurgus Rayner Varser, a prominent young lawyer of Kinston, N. C., Dr. G. H. Snead officiating.

The bride, a Hollins music medalist, continued the study of music in the best New York schools, and atterwards has charge of the musical department of Fork and other leading schools of the South Being unusually fine looking, a blonde of pronounced type, vivacious and quiek witted, she had throngs of admirers in both sexes, many of whom from far and near attested their interest by their presence at the social event, of which shu was queen.

The church decorations were fittingly adapted to the occasion, green and white predominating, and consisted in part of festoons of rare flowers artistically, arranged, and potted plants, over all of which numerous candelabra cast a sombre, mellow light.

ranged, and potential ranged, and potential ranged, and potential ranged ranged stlence. He was ashamed of his infirmi-ties. His was the instinct of the dog that goes away into some hidden corner to

A simple question in such a tone of quiet, fillal submission, that a whole volumne could not contain all that it said to the old man's proud, unbending said to the old lists productions heart.

"Yes, my boy, do."
And the last six years were wiped away like evil writing from a slate.

There was no explanation. These two men were not of those who explain themselves. "In the warmli of explanation say things which they do not fully mean. The opinions that each had held during the years they had left behind had perhaps been modified on both sides, but neither sought details of the modification. They knew each other now, and each respected the indomitable will of the other.

energy of the agent which to see.

When the servant came it was Jack who gave the orders, and the butler listened to then with a sort of enthusiasm. When he had closed the door behind him he pulled down his waistcoat with a jerk, and is he walked down-stairs he muttered "Thank 'eaven!" twice, and wip, ed away i tear from his bibulous eye.

(To be Continued To-morrow.)

The song, 'Fragrant Summer Time,' was rendered by Mrs. Mary Bell Miller, soprano of the First Baptist Chuvch,
Richmond, Va., as part of the introductory exercises.

After a buffet lunchoon, served at 'The Windson' the home of Mr. C. P. Snead, uncle of the bride, the married pair took the 4:30 P. M. train for the honeymoon trip, and will be at home in Kinston on September 1st.

Campbell-Tilghman.

was white and green, principally ferns on background of white lace. The parlor was darkened and soft lights burned, rendering the scene indescribably pretty. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Travis J. Taylor, of the Virginia Conference, an uncle of the groom.

Dr. and Mrs. Campbell will spend a few days in Richmond before going to their future home in King William. The beautiful bride comes of a distinguished family of the Eastern Shor of Maryland, and of the Eastern Shor of Maryland, and the family tree dates back to 1244, from which time the long line of descendants can be traced. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Täghman, and is popular with a large circle of relatives and friends in Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina.

Dr. Campbell comes of an honored and well known Virginia family. He is a young physician of great prominence, and gtands high in his chosen profession.

Furniture!

Sectional Bookcase

people to place agencies only in large cities. We, however, induced them by a Car Load purchase to open an agency here. We show their full line in Oak Imitation and solid Mahogany, at their prices in Grand Rapids, Mich. Mr. Wernicke, pioneer of the Wernicke Sectional Bookcases, whose pame stands for Bookwhose name stands for Book-cases around the world, now devotes his entire time to the Macey Company's interests.

The Automatic Refrigerator.

be the best made. We have built up the largest business in the South, by honest dealing.

We tell you we believe it to

We are honest in what we say about the Automatic. Lawn and Porch Goods, Mattings, Carpets. Curtains, Druggets.

Shades. Rugs,

WITH EDGED TOOLS, BY HENRY SETON MERRIMAN. . . ONE OF MERRIMAN'S STRONGEST BOOKS . .

ship," he said, "You were kind enough to say the other day that you were indebted to me to some extent. You are indebted to me to a larger extent than you perhaps realize. You owe me fitty years of a happiness-fifty years of a lite that might have been happy had you decided differently when-when we were younger. I do not blame you now-I never blamed you. But the debt is thereyou know my life, you know almost every day of it-you cannot deny the debt. I drew upon that."

And the white-haired woman raised her hand, "Don't," she said, gently, "please don't say any more. I know all that your life has been, and why. You did quite right, What is a little trouble to me, a little passing inconvenience, the tattle of a few idle tongues, compared with what Jack's life is to you? I see now that I ought to have opposed it strongly instead of letting it take its course. You were right-you always have been right, John. There is a sort of consolation in the thought. I like it. I like to think that you were always right and that it was I who was wrons. It confirms my respect for you. We shall get over this somehow. "The young lady," suggested Sir John. "will get over it after the manner of her kind. She will marry some one else, let us hope, before her wedding-dress goes out of fashion."

"Millicent will have to get over it as she may. Her feelings need scarcely be taken into consideration."

the above-named circumstances were partly under your control, I need hardly offer an explanation. I leave town and probably England to-night,
"I am, your affectionate son,
"JOHN MEREDITH."

There were no signs of haste or discomposure. The letter was neatly written in the somewhat large caligraphy, firm bold, ornate, which Sir John had insisted on Jack's learning. The stationery bore a club crest. It was an eminently gentlemanly communication. Sir John read it and gravely tore it up, throwing it into the fire, where he watched it burn. Nothing was further from his mind than life. I need not suggest discretion as to this letter.

"Your affectionate friend,
"CAROLINE CANTOURNE."

Jack Meredith read this letter in the coffee-room of the Hotel of the Four Seasons at Wiesbaden. It was a lovely morning—the sun shone down through the trees of the Friedrichstrasse upon that spotless pavement, of which the stricken wot; the fresh breeze came bowling down from the Taunus Mountains all balsamic and invigorating—it picked up the odors of the seringa and flowering currant in the Kurgarten, and threw itself in at the open window of the coffee-room of the liotel of the Four Seasons.

Jack Meredith was resiless. Such odors as are borne on the morning breeze are apt to make those men restless who have set sell that they want.

waiting to open the door and help her to be a continued to the control of the con

The clothes were old. The fateful doctrine of not-worth-while had set in. Father and son shook hands, and Sir John walked feebly to the stiff-backed chair, where he sat down in shamefaced goes away into some hidden corner to die.

"I am glad to see you," he said, using his two hands to push himself farther back in his chair.

There was a little pause. The fire was getting low. It fell together with a feeble, crumbling sound.

"Shall I put some coals on?" asked Jack.

A simple question—if you will. But it was asked by the son in such a tone of was asked by the son in such a tone of the said.

cach respected the indomitable will of the other.

They inquired after each other's health. They spoke of events of a common interest. Trifies of everyday occurrence seemed to contain absorbing details. But it is the every-day occurrence that makes the life, it was the putting on of the coals that reconciled these two men.

"Let me see," said Sir John, "you gave up your roems before you left England, did you not?"

"Yes."

Jack drew forward his chair and put his feet out towards the fire. It was marvellous low thoroughly at home he seemed to be.

"Then," coalinued Sir John, "where is your luggage?"

marvelous was assessed to be.
"Then," coalinued Sir John, "where is your lugsage?"
"I left it at the club."
"Send along for it. Your room is—er, aulte ready for you. I shall be glad if you will mate use of it as long as you like. You will be free to come and go as if you were in your own house."

Jack noddel with a strange, twisted little smile, as if he were suffering from cramp in the legs. It was cramp—at the heart,
"Thanks." he said, "I should like nothing better. Shall I ring?"

Jack rang and they waited in the fading daylight without speaking. At times Sir John moved his limbs, his hand on the arm of the chair and his feet on the hearth-rug, with the jerky, half-restless energy of the aged which is not pleasant to see.

When the servant came it was Jack

It Has Been the Polloy of the